

Mr Satya Bhattacharya MBBS, MPhil, FRCS

Mr Bhattacharya is a consultant surgeon at the Royal London Hospital and lead for the hepatobiliary multidisciplinary team. He obtained his medical degree from Grant Medical College, Bombay and trained in liver and pancreas surgery at the Royal Free and University College Hospitals in London. Clinically, he specialises in surgery of the liver, pancreas, gall bladder and bile duct, radiofrequency ablation of tumours and laparoscopic surgery. His research interests include chemo-embolisation of liver tumours and radiofrequency ablation of liver tumours. He is also on the attending staff at the London Clinic, the London Independent Hospital and the King Edward VII Hospital